what is women build?

Lexington Habitat for Humanity Women Build is a coalition of women working together to increase access to decent, affordable housing.

women build community

Women Build is a movement, driven by the power of women supporting women on a Lexington Habitat for Humanity build site. Whether you are a seasoned builder or a novice with a hammer, you will discover women investing in the community they love by building strength and stability through affordable homeownership.

women build hope

Through shelter, we empower – and we want you to join the cause. No matter your experience with construction, fundraising or community building, there is a place for you at Women Build.

women build homes

We need your hands and your help to deliver on Lexington Habitat's vision of a world where everyone has a decent place to live. Costs are rising. Land is scarce. The need is great. Your participation in Women Build is a tangible response to Lexington's affordable housing crisis.

women build a better lexington

Let's come together to do just that. So, what does it mean to be a part of Women Build?

- Learn construction skills in a safe and supportive environment
- Support fundraising for a homebuyer household
- Volunteer your time to build a Habitat home
- Enjoy friendships that last a lifetime

Join Women Build today for an educational, rewarding and fun opportunity to make Lexington a better place for everyone to live.

Women Build provides you with an opportunity to fundraise, participate in the construction process and partner with a local Habitat homebuyer to make their dream of affordable homeownership a reality. On-site build day opportunities will be available.

We will provide you with information to share with prospective supporters, including a link for online giving. You will also receive on-site training. You do not need construction skills or prior experience to be a part of Women Build.

Your time and contributions will directly support a Lexington Habitat homebuyer. Every helping hand makes a difference.
